CHAPTER 1 THEORY OF DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS: AN INTRODUCTION For simple differential equations, it is possible to find closed form solutions. For example, given a function g , the general solution of the simplest equation $Y'(t) = g(t)$ is $Y(t) = \int g(s)ds + c$ with an arbitrary integration constant. Here, $\int g(s)ds$ denotes any fixed antiderivative of g .

Note that a solution to a differential equation is not necessarily unique, primarily because the derivative of a constant is zero. For example, $y = x^2 + 4$ $y = x^2 + 4$ is also a solution to the first differential equation in Table 4.1. We will return to this idea a little bit later in this section.
